The Second Session of the Forty-sixth Congress Has Adjourned Sine Die.

The Senators and Representatives Quietly Fold Their Tents and Sled Away.

Statistical Reports From Washington—A Man Found Dead in Deadwood.

Sporting News in the East—The President's Veto Message—Garfield Vindicated.

GRACIAS A DIOS.
Special to the Gazette.

Washington, June 16.—Both houses of Congress adjourned at noon, today sine die. All regular annual appropriation bills were signed by the President in time to announce their approval before the hour of adjournment, and consequently became laws. A number of nominations failed to receive action and expired at the close. Among them were that of John W. Hartnuff, as collector of customs for Philadelphia.

M. S. O.

SENATE.

Jones, of Florida, chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs, reported with amendments his joint resolution instructing the Secretary of the Navy to take the necessary steps to secure adequate naval stations and harbors for the use of naval forces of the United States at proper points on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, Central America and American Isthmus, and he asked that the present consideration of which objects to the measure declaring the policy of this Government.

The International question being brought in the two and half hour session, and a resolution which was placed on the calendar.

Anthony attempted to get up the President's veto for the message for the action; but the Senate voted to go into executive session first, and after that, to consider the House bills now on the calendar, despite Anthony's protest that it was wrong.

The vote to consider the calendar was carried by a party vote, except that of Plumb, Booth and Hill who voted yea and Farley nay.

Three or four House bills were then passed.

By motion of Logan, the eight hour bill was then taken up.

Withers objected and it was tabled. On motion of Blaine, the House resolution to give its annual employees a month extra pay was amended to include the Senate employees a month and then tabled to avoid action.

On Barley's motion it was designated to kill it to make it include all employees of the Government.

The usual complimentary resolutions were then passed.

Barley's malt bill was taken up and he refused to give way for the consideration of the President's message.

Thurman saw no constitutional objection to the consideration of the veto message and that next session it would be a little late; but there was not time now.

After the executive session the doors were opened, and at noon the Senate quietly adjourned.

HOUSE.

There was a great clamor for the recognition in front of the speakers desk for a motion to proceed to the speakers table, which was rejected by a vote of 104 to 71.

Wednesday session then began.

Carlisle reported from the committee on the Donnelly-Washburne bribery case, which was ordered to be printed and recommitted.

Carlisle said that the conference had decided that the anonymous letter was written and sent by H. H. Finley; and as to the other points, there were disagreements in the conference.

Manning asked whether the committee reached any conclusive evidence touching Donnelly's connection with the letter; if not, he would submit a report of the committee on elections.

Carlisle said that the majority had not concluded whether Donnelly had any personal connection with it.

Baker asked if Donnelly had any at all.

Carlisle said he was somewhat embarrassed in answering; but he answered Baker in the negative.

Manning said that the vindication of Donnelly 'be submitted; and his report was signed by five democratic members of the committee of elections, giving the seat to Donnelly.

Physter concurred in believing that Washburne was not entitled to a seat; but dissented from the conclusion that Donnelly was.

Keefe submitted another report from the committee declaring that Washburne was entitled to the seat, and that seven of the fifteen members of the committee agreed to this; and ten in believing that Donnelly was not entitled.

The reports were ordered printed and a notification being received from the President that he had no others, there was a scramble for recognition.

Many pressed the public building bills, which caused the remarks that Peoria had its friends, and Rochester its friends; but where was the friends of the Treasury.

The confusion was great, and no one in the midst of call of the house to ascertain if a quorum was present.

The speaker made a speech, expressing good will towards each member and delegate, and then declared the house adjourned.

Berlin, June 16.—The Conference had a short session to-day. A discussion of the programme will begin Friday or Saturday.

Washington, June 16.—United States Treasurer Gillfillan, to-day instructed the assistant Treasurer at New York to invest the best advantage on account of the sinking fund of the Union Pacific Railroad $127,856 and on the Central Pacific $212,670.

Washington, June 16.—The session of the Forty-Sixth Congress ended to-day very tamely. The only thing especially noticeable during the closing hours, being the manner in which a faction of the House, aided by Speaker Randall, continued to succeed in preventing the transaction of any business whatever. The feelings of indignation caused by this exercise, which has for several days made it practically impossible to pass scores of meritorious bills, that otherwise would have become laws, is very wide spread, and undoubtedly well founded.

Cairo, Egypt, June 16.—There is much excitement because Cochino Poka, formerly minister of war and marine, obtained naturalization as an Italian subject without the permission of the Egyptian Government, thus placing under protection of the Italian Government, his immense property, which it is generally supposed really belongs to the Ex-Khedive Pasha left Egypt yesterday without having passport. Khedive has issued decrees ordering his degradation in the Egyptian army and forbidding his return.

Chicago, June 16.—The Journal's Washington letter says that there has been produced from Jerre Black, dated in '73, in which a complete vindication of Garfield from the wrong in connection with the credit mobilier matter. Mr. Black says that Garfield was deceived by Oakes Ames and says that his, Garfield's, integrity depended on the question whether he acted with his eyes opened, if he had known the true character of the proposition made to him, he would not have endured it, much less than embraced it.

Deadwood, June 16.—Martin L. Conklin who was sentenced to be hanged on July 2nd for the murder of Mrs. Minnie Collium, in August, 1878, has been committed to life imprisonment. The man who married here last week registering as John King was found dead near town today with a bullet hole in his head and a pistol in his hand. The verdict of the coroner's jury was suicide.

London, June 16.—A telegram from Buenos Ayres says that hostilities have been begun by the committee of the House of Commons in the case of Bradlaugh. It has decided that he should not be allowed to take the parliamentary oath; but that he may at his own risk make affirmation of allegiance.

Washington, June 16.—The following statement showing the condition of cotton and wheat was issued by the department of agriculture to-day. In cotton the returns indicate an increase in area, and in a better condition than last year at the same time and is 99 this year against 96 of last year. The weather is favorable everywhere, but there is rather too much rain in Mississippi and Louisiana. The wheat is average. It shows a very slight increase over last year. There is a decline in area. The snow, in the States of Wisconsin and Iowa of May 12th and in some precincts in New England. The area is the same in Maine with an increase in 9 precincts, and California 12. The condition of the winter wheat is remarkably good, and 94 which is 4 precincts above average last year.

Windom presented to the senate to-day his views to the exodus committee, appointed to investigate the causes which led to so much emigration among the negroes of the south to the northern states. He asserts that they found no evidence whatever tending to sustain the charges that the republican party or any of its leaders had been instrumental in encouraging the exodus from the south to the north with reference to "aid societies" encouraging and aiding this emigration. He merely found that their purposes were partly charitable and had no connection with any political movement. The minority then proceeded to every exhaustive view and some colored witnesses were examined by the committee, nearly all of the witnesses attributes the cause to feelings of insecurity for life and property.

Chicago, June 16.—A New York Tribune's special says there has been much speculation about Tilden's canvass at Cincinnati, but appeal which is to be presented to the delegates and which can have only one author, effectually settles the question of his candidacy. Appeals has been carefully guarded, but a copy is in hand and is given in full. It contains 12 questions, which makes it a query whether Tilden was elected in 1876, and whether he is not de jure president now; whether he was not defrauded out of the office by conspiracy; whether the house had so declared; whether in this view a democratic convention can justly and consistently nominate another man; whether any other democrat can consistently accept the nomination, and must not the democratic convention vindicate Tilden and their own rights by nominating him. And will the democratic convention nominate another man than the one their platform must declare was cheated out of the presidency. Will not the republican press justly ridicule the illogical position of the democratic convention. What a grand opportunity is presented to democrats whose names has never been published in connection with candidacy to write in a note to the convention withdrawing their names and presenting that of a man whom the people elected.

London, June 16.—It is said that premier Gladstone wrote, Monday night last before leaving the House of commons, a long letter to Lord Lyons, the British minister to France, explaining the O'Donnel incident, and instructing him to read the letter to Lord Grey. It is also rumored that if O'Donnel facts are to prove his accusation against Challewell Lacour, premier Gladstone would have to move the vote of censure upon him. The Liverpool Coastier states that there are grave discussions in the cabinet. The right honorable Jas. Chamberlain, President of the board of trade, wishes to retire, his principal grievance being the failure of the Government to recall Sir Bartle Freere from the Governorship of the Cape of Good Hope. A better contest is anticipated.

Washington, June 16.—At one o'clock this afternoon the senate conference nominated Lieutenant General Samuel Mead for deputy postmaster; General Randolph and G. Eckart, of Oregon, surgeons; Rev. David Wilson, of Colorado, post chaplain; Charles A. Withrell, of Nevada, registrar of the land office at Canon City; R. H. Fay, agent of the Mammoth Indians in Oregon; Thos. Chestnut, for postmaster at Silverton, Colorado. The bill for the relief of Ben Holliday was made a special order for the first Wednesday in December next.

THE PRESIDENT'S VETO.

Washington, June 16.—President Hayes sent the following veto to the senate: "After mature consideration of the bill entitled an act to regulate the pay and appointment of deputy marshalls, I am constrained to withhold from it my approval and return it to the senate, with my objections to its passage. The laws now in force on the subject of the bill before, are contained in the following sections of the revised statutes:

SECTION, 2021. "Whenever, on election, at which representatives or delegates in congress are to be chosen and held in any city or town of 10,000 or upward, the marshal for the district in which the town is situated, shall, on application in writing of at least two hundred citizens residing in that city, appoint special deputy marshalls, whose duty it shall be required, thereto, to aid and without process for any offence not committed in the presence of the marshal or deputy of elections, or either of them, and for the purpose of arrest or preservation of the peace. The supervisors of elections, shall in the absence of the marshal or deputies, or if required, to assist such deputies in the same duties and the powers of deputies. Nor shall any person, on the day of such election be arrested without process for any offence committed on the day of the registration.

SEC. 2023. When ever any arrest is made under any provision of this title, the person arrested shall be brought before a commissioner, judge, or court of the United States for examination of the offenses alleged, and such judge or court shall proceed in respect thereto as authorized by law in the case of crime against the United States. The President also rehearses the several other acts the supervisors of election in verification of any list of persons who may have registered or voted to each district or voting precincts at times and places when and where registration may by law be scrutinized, and names registered, and voters be worked for challenge, and also, attend all times for holding elections the polls in that district or precinct.

SEC. 2022. The marshal and his general deputies shall keep peace and support and protect the supervisors of election in discharge of their duties; preserve order at such places of registration, and at such polls prevent fraudulent registration and fraudulent voting thereat, or fraudulent conduct on the part of any officer of election, and immediately of the place of registration, polling place or elsewhere, and before or after registering or voting, to arrest, and take into custody, with or without process, any person who counts, or attempts, or offers to commit acts of offenses, prohibiting, or who commit any offence against the laws of the United States; but no person shall be arrested sections bearing on that point, and from the supreme court decision.
